

Women's and Newborn Care

Gold Coast University Hospital

Women and family focused care including antenatal and lactation support services, birth suite, midwifery group practice, maternity inpatient units, newborn care and home visiting service.

Learning Opportunities

- Care of women and their families across antenatal and lactation support services, birth suite, maternity inpatient units (NQMs do not work in newborn care unit) and newborn care.
- Progression through clinical areas to support life long learning
- Multidisciplinary collaboration and clinical support
- Participation in research and audit activities
- Clinical leadership and mentor opportunities
- Web based learning activities
- Inservice training sessions

Educational Resources

- Nurse and midwifery educators
- Clinical facilitation and preceptorship
- Orientation program
- Multi-model peer and mentor support forums
- 12 month transition to practice program
- Nurse and midwives clinical skills sessions
- Neonatal resuscitation training

Professional Opportunities

- Transition to practice - nurse and midwife positions
- Grade 5 to Grade 6 professional development
- Practice development through professional development leave
- Succession planning for career development